Digium®'s Switchvox® AA350 Chosen as Top Emerging Technology

Affordable, Easy-to-Use Phone System is Honored at Everything Channel's Fresh Showcase

San Jose, Calif., Nov. 19, 2008 – Digium®, the Asterisk® Company, announced that the Switchvox® AA350 phone system has been selected as one of the top emerging technologies at Fresh, A First Look at New Technology, a program designed for vendors with new, emerging technologies that are trying to reach the Solution Provider Channel. The program was part of the XChange Tech Innovator conference presented by Everything Channel in conjunction with the Sightline Group.

The Fresh presentation highlighted the key features of the AA350 in a lively multimedia production. Switchvox was presented in a unique stage format to technology decision-making attendees and participated in an interview with Ray Robidoux and Fred Brown of the Sightline Group.

Digium's Switchvox family provides complete phone systems for small- and medium-sized businesses and is based on Asterisk, the world's most widely used open source telephony project. Digium's Switchvox AA350 is a flexible, easy-to-use IP PBX that supports up to 400 users. It is a redundant rack-mount server that is ideal for larger customers that want the highest level of performance and peace of mind.

“It’s an honor to have Switchvox AA350 phone system chosen as a top emerging technology. At Digium, we are committed to providing businesses of all sizes a phone system that is affordable, flexible and multifunctional,” said Tristan Degenhardt, Digium’s product marketing director for Switchvox. “Through our growing channel program, which includes more than 400 resellers, organizations have access to a phone system that meets their needs whether they employ four people or 400.”
